To Whom It Concern:

Please consider this note as an unreserved adamant recommendation for you to work with Sal Rendino. I have had occasion to work with Sal on- and off-set for a period of many years, and I write this as a proud colleague qualified to speak on Sal's professionalism and personal character, both of which are admirable.

You would be happy -- as I am -- to consider him a friend or associate. As an actor, he calmly stepped into a high pressured environment (as a last-minute replacement for a lead in my film), and he not only took the reins confidently but led by example, pleasantly navigating new personalities and challenges. His humor is an infectious asset on-set and off, he is always thoroughly prepared, and he treats everyone, no matter their status, with great respect. His work is more than commendable, and his work ethic enviable.

It's my good fortune to have shared time with him, and I strongly recommend you welcome the same opportunity.

Sincerely,
